

Bruce Benson/Studio B

"Studio B" consists of Bruce Benson / lead vocals & guitar, Tony McCarroll / bass guitar, Reggie Ganther / drums, Dalon Ellis / piano & organ, and Larry Banks / saxophone & flute.

Together for over five years Studio B has performed regularly throughout the Midwest and locally at Oklahoma City's Makers Piano & Cigar Lounge, Nonna's Purple Bar, Oklahoma City Museum of Art, Remington Park Casino and at numerous private events and jazz festivals.

The Studio B song list includes improvisational arrangements of popular hits along with original compositions the music industry calls smooth jazz.

The band's overall sound features vocals from Bruce Benson often compared to Barry White or Isaac Hayes. -- Amazing saxophone and flute from Larry Banks of Chicago, Ill., and a solid rhythm section with Reggie Ganther and his twirling drumsticks and awesome syncopation, -- Tony McCarroll, who simply astounds audiences with his command of the bass guitar and Dalon Ellis who brings the whole package together with delicate combinations of piano and organ.

Studio B is influenced by deep roots in gospel music and artists like David Sanborn, Marvin Gaye, Grover Washington Jr. Spyro Gyra, Michael Franks, Al Jarreau and others.
